The fact that there is a large number of bibliographies contained in the U. S. government publications is probably known to the scholar, but not to the general reader. These bibliographies differ greatly in subject and scope and though not always purporting to be complete show a careful selection of authorities. The use of these bibliographies is lessened by the fact that there is no list of them available. The government indexes make note of some of them, but they cannot all be found here. Several of the U. S. governmental bodies have issued lists of their publications in which one may find a list of the bibliographies published by them; such bodies are the Smithsonian institution and the Geological survey, but the majority of bodies in whose publications appear bibliographies of more or less importance have no record of these; hence much valuable material is not accessible.

This list contains those bibliographies found in the Congressional set of the U. S. government documents in the University of Illinois library, the file being nearly complete from 1841 to date; Cong. 27, sess. 1 to date. The arrangement is alphabetical by specific subjects with frequent cross references; each subject being followed by the author of the bibliography, title, date and number of pages.

In order that the list may be used with editions of the documents other than the Congressional, the names of the departments issuing the documents are given. Reference is made to the number of congress, session, kind of document e. g. Senate or House, executive or miscellaneous, volume, document number, inclusive paging of the bibliography and serial number of the volume.

While this list is limited to those volumes contained in the University of Illinois library, it is expected that it will be completed next year in the Library of Congress at Washington thus making it more valuable and usable to other libraries.
